ORDERING INFORMATION & TERMS

Dear Model Railroader,

Happy Holidays & Welcome to the Holiday 2019 Atlas ASMC Consumer edition of product Announcements and Arrivals. This All Scales Monthly Catalog (ASMC) is the core of our guaranteed pre-order system. Prior to the start of supplier production, Atlas announces to authorized dealers, distributors and e-subscribers that we are ready to take orders. This notification comes in the form of Atlas' All Scales Monthly Catalog (ASMC) which focuses in on the current month's planned and specified announcements and allows consumers to place guaranteed pre-orders with their local hobby shop for those specific products by a given date. If you need assistance finding a dealer near you, don't forget our Hobby Store Locator! Check out the locator at <http://shop.atlasrr.com/storeLocator.aspx>. You can also view and reserve products via Atlas' online store shop.atlasrr.com.

This edition of the ASMC is sure to make any modeler feel like a child on Christmas morning! We're announcing a brand new locomotive in N scale –the GP 38-2 Phase 2 Locomotives, along with Greenville Twin Hoppers. In both HO & N scale, we're featuring NSC Box Cars, Trash Flats, Containers 5800 Hoppers and Pickup Trucks. HO will also see the announcement of new paint schemes on B23 Locos. O scale rounds out the holiday offerings with Troop Cars and War Emergency Gondolas - you'll find all of those wonderful models and more inside, as well as arriving locomotives, rolling stock and track in all scales.

We hope that you enjoy the product selections on the pages within, and as always, thank you for your continued support of Atlas!

With Best Wishes for a Merry Christmas & Happy New Year

Happy Modeling,

Joe Kolnoski
Vice President of Sales

PROTOTYPE INFORMATION:

In the 1970s, Greenville began to build a fleet of venerable open top hoppers. These would be known as the Greenville 100-ton 2-Bay Hopper. They could be seen in any type of service, hauling rock, ballast, dirt, sand, and even taconite ore. Their smaller size and 2-bay hopper doors made them very versatile for any service in any condition. Atlas' offering of the Greenville Hopper features crisp lettering, durable body, fine end ladder and end details, and free rolling trucks. A group of cars would look right at home in a unit train arriving from the quarry or buried in your consist delivering a shipment of clean dirt to a construction site.

MASTER MODEL FEATURES:

- Crisp painting and printing
- Durable body
- Fine end ladder and end details
- Free rolling trucks

4 MSW Containers per flat car
†Alternate history scheme

PROTOTYPE INFORMATION:

An increased use of shipping containers during the 1970s led to new designs of railway cars for carrying them. The standard cars used at the time were full plate-deck 85' and 89' flat cars with 70-ton trucks. However, each 20-foot international shipping container of the era could gross some 25 tons – thus a flat car carrying four at maximum gross would be 100 tons. In an effort to address this weight issue, new flat cars with open decks and 100 ton trucks were placed in service and eventually used for a new railroad commodity – trash containers.

MASTER MODEL FEATURES:

- Open deck design
- True scale dimensions with accurate details
- Weighted, detailed underframes
- 100-ton trucks equipped with free-rolling metal wheels
- Accurate painting and printing

PROTOTYPE INFORMATION:

In the past decade there has been a significant increase in moving municipal solid waste (MSW) on railroads. One of the vehicles commonly seen in this service is the 20' MSW container.

The more commonly seen ISO 20' intermodal containers are used for transporting new-products from country-to-country. The 20' MSW intermodal container differs greatly from its ISO 20' relative by being much taller and having a top lid. The 20' MSW containers are 12 foot tall (compared to 8.5' tall on the ISO 20's).

20' MSW containers usually travel in large blocks or solid trains on 80- and 89-foot flat cars. There have been no reported cases of double stacking as this would probably exceed most railroad height restrictions.

The MSW container design is based on a steel frame incorporating ISO components for interchangeability. Each container is equipped with fork lift pockets for loading, unloading and moving around transfer facilities. Each container is also equipped a fire port on one side.

MASTER MODEL FEATURES:

- Mounting pegs for 85' Trash Flat
- Prototypical paint schemes
- See-through forklift pockets
- Detailed molden-on chain securement
- Fire port on one side

PROTOTYPE INFORMATION:

General Electric's "Dash 7" locomotive line was introduced as a replacement for the older "Universal-Series" of the 60s and early 70s. "Dash 7" series improvements included increased fuel efficiency, tractive effort and reliability. The B23-7 was a direct replacement for the 2,250HP U23B model, while the B30-7 replaced the 3,000HP U30B. The first B23-7s were produced for Conrail in September, 1977, and the first B30-7s were produced for Frisco three months later.

B23-7 production continued through 1984, with a total of 535 units built. Conrail was the largest purchaser of the model, with a total fleet of 141 units. 199 B30-7s were produced through 1981, with the combined fleets of Southern Pacific and Cotton Belt being the largest at 110 units.

Several features distinguished B23-7s and B30-7s from predecessor models. The long hood stepped outward in the area of the exhaust stack to accommodate a relocated oil cooler. In addition, the frame was 2 feet longer than that of the U23B. An FB-2 style truck was offered as standard equipment, but some railroads opted to use "trade-in" trucks. Therefore, AAR type B and Blomberg trucks could be found on some models. Six power assembly doors (located near the center of the long hood) indicated that the B23-7 was powered by a 12-cylinder GE FDL engine. Eight power assembly doors in the same location help to identify the B30-7, which included a 16-cylinder FDL engine.

PROTOTYPE INFORMATION:

Gunderson's 48' all-purpose well car was introduced into service in 1993. The car was a design extension of previous well cars that carried containers only. The all-purpose feature meant that it could carry either containers or trailers giving it greater versatility for intermodal trains. The height of the sides are lower than previous container-only well cars to allow trailers to clear while being loaded into the car by lift equipment. This design also featured two hitches for transporting two 28-foot trailers.

MASTER MODEL FEATURES:

- Improved body tooling since 1st run
- Fewer customer-installed parts
- Floor with correct ovals and cut-outs
- Two hitches
- Etched walkways
- Four IBC bins
- Detailed brake components
- Prototypically accurate paint schemes
- Recommended 24" radius

4 MSW Containers per flat car
†Alternate history scheme

FIRST TIME OFFERED AS SETS!

PROTOTYPE INFORMATION:

An increased use of shipping containers during the 1970s led to new designs of railway cars for carrying them. The standard cars used at the time were full plate-deck 85' and 89' flat cars with 70-ton trucks. However, each 20-foot international shipping container of the era could gross some 25 tons – thus a flat car carrying four at maximum gross would be 100 tons. In an effort to address this weight issue, new flat cars with open decks and 100 ton trucks were placed in service and eventually used for a new railroad commodity – trash containers.

MASTER MODEL FEATURES:

- Open deck design
- Container pedestals
- True scale dimensions with accurate details
- Weighted, detailed underframes
- 100-ton trucks equipped with free-rolling wheels
- Accurate painting and printing

PROTOTYPE INFORMATION:

In the past decade there has been a significant increase in moving municipal solid waste (MSW) on railroads. One of the vehicles commonly seen in this service is the 20' MSW container.

The more commonly seen ISO 20' intermodal containers are used for transporting new-products from country-to-country. The 20' MSW intermodal container differs greatly from its ISO 20' relative by being much taller and having a top lid. The 20' MSW containers are 12 foot tall (compared to 8.5' tall on the ISO 20's).

20' MSW containers usually travel in large blocks or solid trains on 80- and 89-foot flat cars. There have been no reported cases of double stacking as this would probably exceed most railroad height restrictions.

The MSW container design is based on a steel frame incorporating ISO components for interchangeability. Each container is equipped with fork lift pockets for loading, unloading and moving around transfer facilities. Each container is also equipped a fire port on one side.

MASTER MODEL FEATURES:

- Prototypical paint schemes
- Detailed chain securement
- Simulated forklift pockets
- Fire port on one side

PROTOTYPE INFORMATION:

During the Second World War, the task of moving large numbers of troops and materiel across the country to ports of embarkation fell to the US railroads. It is estimated that nearly 44 million troops traveled by train between December of 1941 and June of 1945 alone, and the available passenger car fleets were unable to keep up with this sudden increase. The Pullman Company, together with American Car and Foundry, utilized the design of a standard 50'6" boxcar to produce 2400 troop sleepers, 440 troop kitchen cars, and 60 hospital/kitchen cars to meet this demand. Following the war (and the use of these cars to return troops home), in 1947 the majority of these cars were sold to the railroads, who converted them into baggage / mail cars, box cars, MOW bunk / kitchen cars and even cabooses. Others were sold to freight car leasing companies, such as Chicago Freight Car Leasing, who then converted them into express and refrigerator cars for companies such as Railway Express Agency (REA).

PROTOTYPE INFORMATION:

In the early 1940s, WWII was in full swing and materials were in short supply. This left the nation's railroads in a state of disarray, as many of the materials normally used for freight cars was redirected for wartime usage. The concept was to substitute wood for steel, wherever possible. This resulted in cars having a half wood, half steel structure. The Atlas O 52'6" 70-Ton War Emergency Gondola captures the look and feel of the composite gondolas right down to the texture of the wood along the sides.

TRAINMAN MODEL FEATURES:

- O-42 minimum (3-Rail)
- Scaled from prototype blueprints
- Fully detailed Ajax brake system
- Separately applied brake wheel
- Movable drop ends
