ON THE COVER

The world isn't flat, and neither is the city! Where mainlines crossed streets, folks got tired of waiting, and railroads tired of butting heads with local officials. An elevated mainline was the answer, allowing traffic to pass beneath the tracks.

In industrial and business areas or residential neighborhoods, elevated trackage adds interest to N Scale layouts and examples are everywhere. Many cross above streets on structures like the newly tooled Cornerstone Urban Steel Overpass. This trackside scene is perfect for the two newest Cornerstone N Scale kits next to the tracks – the Two-Story Frame House and the American Bungalow, which will be at home in your layout's neighborhoods!

New Meets Old

A “factory fresh” EMD SD9 shuffles 1920s-era wooden boxcars and reefers in a typical scene from the late 1950s. The SD9 was EMD’s answer for railroads that required more tractive effort to handle “special duties” (hence the “SD” in the name) like slow ore and coal trains or long drag freights and transfer runs. At 1,750 horsepower with six axles to spread its weight, the SD9 was ideal for slow-speed branch line duties too. When these units were introduced in 1954, prewar 40' cars still ruled the rails and wartime wood boxcars and reefers were common. Some of the wooden cars had also been rebuilt with more durable steel components after the war. Many of these fascinating freight cars are also WaltherMainline® HO Scale models and the EMD SD9 is one of the latest WaltherProto® arrivals, making re-creating late-1950s and early-1960s train consists fast and fun on your layout.

A Note on Availability

At Walther's, we strive to provide you with the widest variety of product possible. In order to achieve this goal, we maintain significant inventory on site. Despite our best efforts to have every item in house at all times, it is not realistically possible to do so. For your convenience, we do our best to promote items that are in stock and to clearly label other items—those that are new and available for Advance Reservations or items that are low in stock and have Limited Quantities Available when the Flyer goes to press. At times, we experience a quick sell out on a particular item or unexpected demand for an item that we believed to have sufficient stock in house. In many cases, items can be back ordered for future delivery. In other cases, we are unable to secure more of a particular item. For the most up to date availability information, we encourage you to check walters.com, email us at custserv@walters.com or call our Customer Service Team at 1-800-4-TRAINS.

Please know that we appreciate your support of both Walther's and your Local Hobby Shop. We are committed to making this Flyer a valuable part of your model railroading.
